Bastrop, TX—A Glance Back in Time

Bastrop's Main Street is charming. It is a great town to walk around and be a tourist....lots of old shops, restaurants located in quaint, old buildings. It's also close to the Colorado River. We had our lunch at Paw-Paw's Restaurant...delicious seafood!!! Afterward, we went on to the museum. Because of the COVID-19, we were divided into three groups for us to go in. Some of us had ice cream and cupcakes. To our surprise, there is a park where we can see the river. Here is the brief history below.

A Brief History

Located at 904 Main Street and established in 1952, the Museum has works diligently to collect and preserve materials and documents relating to the history of Bastrop and Bastrop County. Our archives, collections and exhibits attract historians, genealogists, writers, families and students. Artifacts span more than 200 years from when Native Americans foraged widely through the area to the latter part of the 20th Century. Documents vary from the 1834 Ayuntamiento of Mina (Bastrop County), to letters written in 1967 by local residents who successfully prevented the removal of the remains of Governor Joseph Sayers from Fairview Cemetery in Bastrop to the Texas State Cemetery in Austin.

Fun Day at Granbury
 By Nancy Morris

On September 20th, my daughter and her friend went to Granbury with me. This is a charming town, and we had so much fun there. The day was gorgeous and cool. It was relaxing to go in and out of shops in this square. I met some people who own these shops who had learned sign language in school and had a deaf niece. It was wonderful to meet them and chat about the deaf culture. Before we left, we had ice cream. It was delicious!
